Tonight's Featured Artist

A native of Los Angeles, Christopher Ahn has appeared in solo, chamber music, and orchestral performances across the U.S. as well as abroad in Europe, Australia, South Korea, South Africa, Canada and Central America. Recent performances include solo recitals at the Brand Library and Art Center, UCLA, California State University, Dominguez Hills, and Santa Monica College, chamber music collaborations on the Chapman University, Dilijan, L'Ermitage Foundation, and Music Guild concert series, and performances of contemporary music with the Blackbird Music Project in Orange County and the Los Angeles composers' collective Synchrony. He has also performed numerous times for live radio broadcasts on the Sundays Live recital series at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Chris has been invited to summer programs at the Aspen Music Festival, Schleswig-Holstein Music Festival in Lubeck, Germany, Banff Centre Masterclasses, Meadowmount School, and most recently, the Rencontres Musicales Camerata Lysy in Montepulciano, Italy. He has collaborated with members of the St. Lawrence, Ysaye, and Amar string quartets, and has performed in masterclasses for such distinguished musicians as Anner Bylisma, Ralph Kirshbaum, Lynn Harrell, Paul Katz, Ida Kavafian, and members of the Takacs, Cleveland and Borodin quartets. Chris received his Bachelor of Arts with Honors from UCLA and Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan, with additional graduate study at the Cleveland Institute of Music. Currently, he is a candidate for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree at UCLA. His principal teachers have included Antonio Lysy, Richard Aaron, Stephen Geber, and Colin Carr.
